

Wendy Hartanto is Deputy for Population Management of National Population and Family Planning Board. He obtained his Master and Ph.D. degree in demography from the Australia National University. He was the director of Population and Labor Force Statistics and director of Institute Statistics at BPS-Statistics Indonesia. He has been active lecturer and member of examiner panel for PhD student at Airlangga University and University of Indonesia. He was responsible for the implementation of 2010 Population Census in Indonesia. He is currently member of the International Technical Advisory Board (ITAB) for the implementation of Population Census in Myanmar. He has undertaken research across a wide range of population fields including infant and under five mortality, maternal mortality, fertility, population projection and labor force. He is regularly participates in local and international conferences such as, the International Statistical Institute (ISI), the IUSSP, the Population Association of America, the Asian Population Association, and ANCSAAP of all of which he is a long time member. He has provided consultancy services to UNFPA, UNICEF, WHO, World Bank, UNDP and ADB.

Nomination for APA Council 2018